started as audio enthusiasts like you. Since then, everyday we have been experimenting with various equipments to find the best possible sound production system. There were countless trial errors. Needless to say; however, our passion with audio has made us keep searching for the "IT" There were times when our music room or our garage became "our home". It was fun, but we realized we were missing the pleasure of having conversation with other audio devotees, who, like us, believe that audio is not just sound, it is an experience. Now that we have found what we were looking for, we want to share that experience with you. Of course we do not stop here. The combination is limitless, and we are excited to find the best arrangement out there to give you a rewarding musical experience.
